'Teach them safety'

What if every woman and child in Australia received free self-defence classes? That's the hope of Thornleigh resident John Gill. Full report, page 5

NEWS

New bridge over troubled history

HORNSBY, your wish has been granted. Thirty-five years after the Hornsby foot-bridge first linked the old and new sides of the Hornsby CBD, it will finally be replaced. Work will begin early next year after the State Government agreed to fund two-thirds of the costs.

Government likely to push for mergers

THE State Government has given the strongest indication yet that some councils will need to be pushed if they refuse to amalgamate. While stopping short of scrapping its "no forced mergers" policy, the Government is set to announce the biggest shake-up in more than a decade.
